DETAILED ACTION

1. It is to be noted that present claims 1 and 3 are interpreted as product claims. That is, present claim 1 is drawn to a photo-induced phase transition organic material composed of a diheteroacrylethene compound, which is capable of having its photochromic reaction occurring in a crystalline state. Present claim 3 is drawn to a photo-induced phase transition organic material of claim 1, in which the diheteroarylethene compound is capable of transferring in phase from an open-ring form to a closed-ring form with UV irradiation and capable of transferring in phase from the closed-ring form to the open-ring form with visible-light irradiation.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Irie (JP 10-251630 and its Derwent English abstract).

Irie teaches (see the English abstract) a fine crystalline photochromic material which comprises a diarylethene bearing a 5-membered hetero ring in the aryl portion, and the Japanese document shows following examples for the compound (see pg.3 of Japanese document);

(3)

(4)

(5)

Among these compounds, the compound (1) teaches present formula [I] (with present A and present B both being of present claim 2); the compound (3) teaches present formula [I] (with present A and present B both being of present claim 2); and the compound (4) teaches present formula [I] (with present A and present B both being of present claim 2). Therefore, the prior art teaches present inventions of claims 1 and 2; since the prior art teaches present compounds of claim 2 (to its exact structures), it is the Examiner's position that the prior art's compounds (1), (3), and (4) would inherently teach present photo-induced phase transition organic material within which photo-chromic reaction occurs in a crystalline state as presently recited in claim 1. Also, it is the Examiner's position that those compounds (1), (3), and (4) would inherently be capable of being transferred in phase from an open-ring form to a closed-ring form with UV irradiation and capable of being transferred in phase from the closed-ring form to the open-ring form with visible-light irradiation as presently recited in claim 3. Thus, the prior art teaches present invention of claim 3.

Double Patenting

4. A rejection based on double patenting of the "same invention" type finds its support in the language of 35 U.S.C. 101 which states that "whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process ... may obtain a patent therefor ..." (Emphasis added). Thus, the term "same invention," in this context, means an invention drawn to identical subject matter. See Miller v. Eagle Mfg. Co., 151 U.S. 186 (1894); In re Ockert, 245 F.2d 467, 114 USPQ 330 (CCPA 1957); and In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970).

A statutory type (35 U.S.C. 101) double patenting rejection can be overcome by canceling or amending the conflicting claims so they are no longer coextensive in scope. The filing of a terminal disclaimer cannot overcome a double patenting rejection based upon 35 U.S.C. 101.

5. Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 as claiming the same invention as that of claims 1, 2, and 5 of prior U.S. Patent No. 6,660,868 B2. This is a double patenting rejection.
